AMERICANS UNABLE TO CREDIT
MEXICANS WILL SNUB AM-BASSADOR LIND.

WILSON IS CONFIDENT

Mexicans Start Anti-American Demonstration and Attack American Property—Bryan Sends Message.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Aug. 7.—Administration officials do not believe the Huerta government in Mexico really intends to snub John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative, as would seem to appear in last night's official statement by the Mexican acting minister of foreign affairs.

At the White House, the impression put out was that when the Huerta government was fully apprised of President Wilson's views as transmitted by Mr. Lind, a different construction would be placed upon Lind's errand and Mexico would realize it as a "mission of peace."

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan are disposed to await the arrival of Mr. Lind in Mexico City before taking any further step in the situation. This was made clear today at the White House. It was pointed out again that Mr. Lind goes merely as advisor of the American embassy in Mexico City. He carries credentials to neither the federal nor the constitutional government.

He will deal with the Huerta government only through the charge the affairs of the American embassy so that there will be no necessity for his being received by Huerta.

Wilson's Representative.

While the broad intimation from the Mexican capital that Mr. Lind would be persona non grata attracted wide attention today, officials were confident that no contingency would occur which would afford an opportunity for any overt demonstration against Mr. Lind's presence.

The envoy is expected to transmit the opinions of the American government in such fashion as to reflect only the friendliness of the United States government toward the Mexican people and no political interest in the factional warfare. He will make clear that what the Mexican government desires to see established is a constitutional government legally set up and it has no concern for the personnel of the candidate.

It was recognized here, however, that it was within the range of possibility for the Huerta government to openly show its disapproval of Mr. Lind's mission and while administration officials were careful to point out that no drastic measures to enforce the opinion of the Washington government was suggested, it was suggested that the United States might in such an event feel justified in lifting the embargo on arms or a recognition of the belligerents.

Anti-American demonstrations and attacks on American property about Acapulco have been renewed, according to today's state department advice. The last attempt was made by bandits to seize Stephens' Brothers ranch. Money was demanded and horses and cattle were stolen. Consul Edwards said little protection is being afforded outside of the larger towns.

Official dispatches from Guaymas confirm the reports that the town is in a state of siege with the street barricaded and the food supply short.

Bryan's Opinion.

Secretary Bryan declared he had not received the Huerta government declarations said in last night's news dispatches to have been forwarded to Washington as well as to Europe. Mr. Bryan explained that a message he sent yesterday to Charles de Affairs O'Shaughnessy instructing him to advise Huerta to await the coming of Envoy Lind instead of proceeding on colored reports published in Mexico, was dispatched before news of Huerta's declaration had been received and therefore it was in no sense an answer to the announcement that Mr. Lind's presence in Mexico would be undesirable.

PERSIAN CAPITOL SCENE OF BIG RIOT

Since Midnight, Persian City Has Been Nothing But Big Fued
Between Bakhtiari Clansmen and Authorities.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Tehran, Persia, Aug. 7.—Fighting has been in progress in the streets of the Persian capitol since midnight when the smouldering feud between Bakhtiari clansmen and the national authorities burst into flame. Firing is going on in the main street of the city where the foreign legations are situated. In other districts there have been numerous conflicts between the military police and the Bakhtiari armed bodies who patrol the streets. The Bakhtiari are a nomadic semi-independent people who inhabit western Persia near the Turkish frontier. They are allied to the Kurds in the last revolution, causing great trouble to the government.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

While the ambassador and his staff were in audience with the emperor the ladies of the diplomatic party were received by the empress.

TURKEY COMPELLED TO EVACUATE NOW

First Steps Are Taken Today Toward
Turkey in Regard to Evacuating
Adriatic Fortress.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Eng., Aug. 7.—The representatives of the powers took the first step at Constantinople today to compel Turkey to evacuate the fortress of Adrianople, which her troops re-occupied after war broke out between the Balkan allies. The diplomatic body demanded that the Turkish government should respect a treaty signed in London between the former belligerents. It is asserted in diplomatic circles that the contemplated action in the powers in the event of the present demand made by them proving futile, will be such as to make further hostility between Bulgaria and Turkey unnecessary.

TEXAS WILL HONOR GIRL WHO MADE FIRST FLAG

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Austin, Texas, Aug. 7.—Gavels made from the trunk of the tree under which the Texas constitution was framed were offered for sale by Governor Colquitt today. The proceeds from the sale of these gavels is to go to the fund for the erection of a monument to the girl who made the first Texas flag.

The constitution of the State was drafted under a live oak tree at Brazoria. During a recent storm the tree was blown down and it was saved only in part from relic hunters. This gave the idea of having the trunk made into gavels and other mementos. Miss Joanna Troutman's grave is to be surmounted by a splendid shaft as a fitting memorial to the girl who made the first Lone Star flag. Miss Troutman's remains recently were removed from an unmarked grave in Georgia and reinterred in the cemetery in this city.

TAKE FIRM STAND ON LABOR SITUATION BY REFUSING DEMANDS

Striking Dockmen at Duluth Gather to Discuss Conditions That Exist.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Duluth, Minn., Aug. 7.—Six hundred striking dockmen stood about the wharves today morning or loaded about the wharves, conversing in their several native languages with Industrial Workers of the World, and as the organizers expressed it "forming new demands." Meanwhile many one carriers awaited loads.

The one companies, hitherto willing to concede demands involving better working conditions, have rescinded all offers and have issued a statement saying that the strikers broke an agreement made earlier in the season and that fully 80 per cent of the men are willing to work, but the strike is the result of I. W. W. agitation and not because of the men's own desire to quit work.

The I. W. W. will send agitators to the two harbors today to spread the strike. The workers there had called for orators, and it is believed that they also will go out.

The strikers here will formally present their demands to the Missabe officials today.

It was positively stated today that the railroads will employ strike breakers. The officials said that the company will give any of the striking employees an opportunity to return to work and will give them protection against those remaining out or their sympathizers.

Already a break has occurred in the strikers' ranks here. Twenty-eight men went to work late this morning and company officials say that fifty more will be employed by tonight. W. A. McLaughlin, president of the union, issued an ultimatum today.

"We are going to give our loyal men a chance today to return and carry out their part of the contract made with us when they went to work and if they won't do that we will get other men to take their places. We are going to operate the ore docks."

Superior, Wis., Aug. 7.—Anticipating an outbreak among Superior strikers the Great Northern last night increased its special police from forty men to sixty. All are heavily armed and the docks are being patrolled twenty-four hours a day.

SENATOR WARREN IN HOT TARIFF DEBATE

Senator Declares War is Hell and So
Is Democratic Tariff Bill, At Least To Farmers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Aug. 7.—"According to the declaration of one of our great war leaders, 'war is hell,' said Senator Warren today in a speech discussing the agricultural schedule of the tariff bill.

"This has never been denied and therefore I beg the liberty of saying that this bill is to be indeed hell so far as 'the farmer of the northwest is concerned."

"About everything he has to sell, the use of his capital and labor, the product of both with but few exceptions, must meet the competition of the world with its cheap, pauper labor while everything he has to buy, barring certain occasional purchases, is taxed."

Alluding to declarations of the democrats that the republican senate leaders through their tariff speeches were trying to bring on a panic, Senator Warren said:

"Sometimes when one doubts the successful outcome of a proposed enterprise or policy he throws out ridges in the way of straw men or dogs on the other fellows for what he fears might happen to his policy. Can it be possible that our democratic friends are thus hedging?"

ANOTHER SHOOTING AFFAIR AT CHICAGO

House.

Pucco, Cozzo and Moreno occupied one bed room. When the police arrived they found Pucco dead on the floor near the door and Moreno on the floor between two beds. At first the police believed he was also a victim of the shooting. Investigation failed to disclose any wounds and after vigorous probing Moreno "revived." ## THE MANUFACTURER WHO HELPS YOU

Mutual is the interest of the retailer and manufacturer.

They both live through service
—the better the service the more they prosper.

Service consists not only in having what the people want,
but in letting them know you have it.

Consumers are newspaper readers. Every reader of today's Gazette is a possible customer.

They may want the very thing you have—but if they don't know you have it—the want is unsatisfied.

The short cut from factory to consumer is through consistent, definite newspaper advertising in which the name of a reputable manufacturer and a reputable retailer are linked. Such advertising reaches the people at once.

It reaches them at the psychological moment when they want the goods.

It sells the goods, profiting manufacturer, retailer and consumer.

CHARGES ARE MADE BY SENATOR BORAH; JUDGES INFLUENCED

Declares That Department of Justice
Has Investigated Federal Judges to Influence Their Action.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—The flat charge that department of justice agents had investigated federal judges to influence their action in cases in which the government was interested, made in the senate today by Senator Borah and endorsed partially at least by Senator Norris.

Senator Borah's charge was brought out by a report from Attorney General McKendall responding to a senate resolution asking where a federal agent was an investigating judge. The resolution reflects some sentiment aroused in the case of Federal Judge Sheer of Georgia whose court had been investigated and who had attacked the department of justice in a public speech. The attorney general replied that any report that the federal department of justice was maintaining a system of espionage over judges was "entirely without foundation."

Mr. Borah responded with his charge, "I know this is a very serious charge," he said, "but I am so reliably informed that I make the statement that within the last four or five years special agents have carried on such investigations with a view to influencing judges."

Senator Norris declared he did not have all the information Senator Borah had, but he believed his statements were based on facts.

The attorney general's report declared that only three judges had been investigated. One of those was Robert W. Archibald. Senator Works introduced the resolution, denouncing the attorney general's report today as "evasive" and unsatisfactory, and announced he would make a further demand for information.

Senator Hoke Smith asked Senator Borah for the exact time when federal agents had been making efforts to influence judges in behalf of government cases.

"If this it has been going on more or less continuously for the last four or five years," responded Mr. Borah.

REFUSE DEMANDS OF NON-UNION MINERS

Seven Hundred Miners Attend Meeting to Reach Strike Agreement
But Plan Fails.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Calumet, Mich., Aug. 7.—The effort of non-union miners of the Calumet and Hecla Mining Company to reach an agreement with that company to return to work on their own terms have resulted in a failure. The committee appointed to interview General Manager McNaughton reported at a mass meeting of the men this morning that he had refused to grant any of the demands made and that they had finished.

The demands of the non-union committee included practically all of those made by the Western Federation of Miners with the exception of recognition of the union, an eight-hour day, minimum wage of $3 a day and payment for Sundays and the employment of one new miner for every six years of age constituted the demands asked as inducements to return. The meeting was attended by seven hundred miners all of whom gained advice by presenting their pay books.

Later Chairman Joseph Heaton appointed a committee of eleven representatives of many nationalities to confer with General Manager McNaughton relative to what protection could be offered if the men returned to work. This action is taken to mean that the men are willing to return at the company's own terms provided they can do so safely.

No formal charge is lodged against him, but the police expressed the belief that he knew more about the shooting than had been told. ## NOTED AVIATOR MET SUDDEN DEATH WHEN HIS MACHINE DROPS

Colonel Cody, American Soldier of Fortune, Killed on English
Aeroplane Testing Field.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Eng., Aug. 7.—Colonel F. S. Cody, the famous Anglo-American aviator, was killed in an aeroplane accident as a pilot today. Cody was trying out a new aeroplane when he met his death. In the machine with him was a passenger named Evans.

They were flying over the open country, most of which is government land, in the Aldershot district, and had just reached the government house when their aeroplane began traveling badly and finally fell water crashed to the spot and found the bodies of Cody and Evans lying beneath the aeroplane.

Cody was the most interesting figure in aviation in the British Isles. He was a real soldier of fortune with a varied career behind him. He was well known to the public in England and very popular. He wore a sombrero, a long mustache, an imperial and long hair and was almost an exact copy of Buffalo Bill.

He came to England a number of years ago from the United States where he had been a cowboy in the west. He had a severe struggle to obtain a start in England. After living precariously for a while he attracted the attention of the experts in the British war office on account of his display of a natural gift of construction, particularly in aerial machines. He was said to be able to build anything in the way of a flying machine or balloon.

His first experiment was made with box kites. These he developed on the British military training grounds at Farnborough, where 30,000 of the finest troops in the British army are always kept in readiness to march off at a moment's notice on an expedition. He achieved such success with his kites that the British war office attached him to its aviation staff.

His theatrical appearance and method created some prejudice against him which, however, was largely dispelled when he forewore American allegiance and became a British subject. The public in England at once began to take him seriously when he carried off the military prize of $20,000 open to the world at Saleburg Place, in August, 1912.

Following that triumph he built several aeroplanes and was constantly experimenting with improved types. All of his aeroplanes were heavy biplanes in which his rivals considered crude in their construction, but he nevertheless made successful flights with some of them.

He leaves a widow and son in England.

Evans was a member of the Indian civil service who had obtained leave of absence to come to England to study aviation. The aeroplane was flying at an altitude of between two and three hundred feet when it fell. Members of the royal flying corps removed the bodies to the military mortuary and an inquest is to be held tomorrow.

SULZER CHECK IS DEPOSITED TODAY

John Lynn's Check Toward Sulzer
Campaign Fund, Deposited With Wall Street Stock Exchange.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Aug. 7.—A check to the order of Governor Sulzer alleged to have been given him for campaign purposes was deposited with a Wall Street stock exchange firm, according to testimony received today by the Farwell legislative investigating committee. The check was for $1500 made out by one John Lynn and endorsed by "William Sulzer." From this same firm, Boyer Criswell and company, Fred J. L. Colwell, said to have been acting for Governor Sulzer in stock transactions, purchased 100 shares of Big Four stock according to the testimony some time during the last state campaign. Colwell refused yesterday to admit that he acted for Governor Sulzer and refused also to testify concerning other alleged purchases of Big Four stock in other brokerage concerns.

That Peter Dolge, a millionaire brewer, contributed $250,000 to the Sulzer campaign fund, which, like some other contributions, was unreported by the governor in his sworn statement, was another feature of the day's testimony.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

LOBBYING.

By Howard L. Rann.

Lobbying is a genteel and unobtrusive pursuit which consists in buying other people's influence for what it is worth, ranging from a $2 bill to a champagne supper. It is the cheapest known method of securing votes which otherwise would come as high as a house and lot.

The lobbyist is a highly paid sleuth who is always ready to take credit for the defeat of a measure with which he had nothing to do. It is nothing uncommon for an able lobbyist to beat an important bill which he did not know was pending, but which is got by a few hundred on his expense account.

There are two kinds of lobbying—good and bad. The good lobbyist is one who persuades the city council to pave a street on which we own property and which is about ready for a sale of town lots at $80 per front foot. The lobbyist who can induce the board of supervisors to spend all of the township road fund in front of his farm is a public-spirited citizen, while the neighbor abutting on the east who gets out an injunction to prevent this righteous proceeding is a reactionary of the lowest type.

Lobbying is an ancient practice and originated with Abel's successful attempt to talk his brother out of a mess of pottage. As a rule, the lobbyist is a good deal sharper than the people he deals with, and sometimes they never discover the existence of a lobby until served with a subpoena from the sergeant-at-arms. Members of congress who can't tell a lobby after it has paid their campaign expenses are lacking in one or two important requisites for the public service—a chaperone or a conscience.

Congressional lobbying is paid for by the common people who can't see any difference in the price of beet and granulated sugar. The ultimate consumer does not object to paying the hotel and railroad expenses of a first-rate lobbyist to prevent the price of hard coal from jumping ten cents a ton every month in the year. But when a lobby sits around and sees premium bacon put in the market, it assumes a criminal aspect at once.

CIRCULATION GAINS AT PUBLIC LIBRARY

ANNUAL REPORT OF LIBRARIAN SHOWS INCREASE EXCEEDS ONE THOUSAND.

MANY VOLUMES ADDED

Nine Hundred and Nine Put on the Shelves—Over Four Thousand Borrowers Are Registered.

Increase in the circulation of public library books by 1023 volumes is shown by the annual report of the librarian of the Janesville Public Library, submitted to the library board at its recent meeting. The report presents an array of statistics and other facts showing that the library is steadily gaining patronage, that the reading public is steadily learning to avail itself of the advantage it offers and that librarians are constantly striving to make the library useful to the community that supports it. The report follows:

To the Board of Directors, Janesville Public Library:
Ladies and Gentlemen:
I have the honor of submitting to you the following report for the year ending June 30, 1913.
The library year began with many changes, Miss Lydia Kingsley, the librarian, resigning about July 30, to accept a position in the far west. Miss Helen Ketter, of St. Joseph, Missouri, was in charge of the library during July and August, and the assistant librarian, Miss Agnes Buckmaster, during the month of September, the present librarian taking charge October first.

Circulation.
Although the circulation of books is but a part of the library work, the influence of a library is very largely measured by the number of books it circulates. This library was open for circulation 307 days, and 307,000 volumes, and 201 pamphlets. The adult department shows a gain in circulation of 3112, and the children's department a loss of 2489, leaving a net increase of 6623 over that of the previous year. The falling off in the circulation of children's books includes both those loaned from the library and from the schools, showing that it is not used by conditions in the Children's Room. It is interesting to note that the decrease in the circulation of children's books is in fiction, the non-fiction circulation showing an increase of 178. The adult non-fiction circulation shows an increase of 2134. Two years ago the non-fiction circulation was 16 per cent of the total; last year it was 18, and this year it is 22 per cent. This increase indicates a growing appreciation by the reading public of more instructive and valuable features of the library. A gratifying increase is shown in the circulation of books in the following classes: sociology, science, useful arts, travel, and history.

The plan of allowing each child two books, only one of which may be fiction, at the same time on his card has proven most satisfactory, and helps explain the increased non-fiction circulation in the children's department, the large increase in the number of current periodicals circulated is noticeable. This library subscribes for many good magazines, a large number of which are placed in the Reading Room, the people who would most enjoy them not having the time to read them there. Hence we have loaned many more of them for home reading having made it our policy to allow any magazine to be taken for a limited time, if it can be done without interfering with the reference use of the library. The people have, as a rule, shown their appreciation by returning the magazines promptly, and we feel that this increased liberality in the lending of periodicals is worth continuing.

Reference.
In the library's service to the community, the reference work is second only to the circulation of books. Much reference work was done during the winter and spring months, and many reference lists prepared for individuals, clubs, and for school work. Where this library could not supply the desired information, books were borrowed for patrons from the Wisconsin State Historical Library, the Library of the University of Wisconsin, the Wisconsin Legislative Reference Library and the Madison Free Library. We have, in turn, loaned books to some of the smaller libraries in this vicinity. This library is well equipped for reference work, having an unusually complete set of bound periodicals, and the indexes necessary for their use.

Reading Room.
The reading room was open 33 Sundays, from October to June, and while the attendance was not large, it was evident that there were many who greatly appreciated the regular opening of the library on that day. The average attendance was 30, the largest number present on any one day was 54, and the smallest, 11.

Registration.
The registration shows that the library has 4107 borrowers, 2757 of whom are adults, and 1350, children. Of the 1427 persons who have registered during the past year, a large number are new borrowers, including people who have recently moved to the city and those who have never before made use of the library privileges. We have about 20 out of town subscribers some from Milton, Sheboygan, Oshkosh, and other nearby towns. Except for the students attending the local schools, we have few borrowers from the country in the immediate vicinity of Janesville. Believing that a city of this size and the country immediately about it are mutually dependent and that the library which serves well the residents of the surrounding rural communities, is best serving the interests of the city itself, we are glad to have this library grant its privileges without cost to all those living on Rural Free Delivery routes whose post office address is Janesville. This could be done with practically no additional expense, and would, I believe, meet the approval of most of the Janesville merchants, who are among our largest tax payers. The libraries in this state which grant full privileges to country people of congress who can't tell a lobby after it has paid their campaign expenses are lacking in one or two important requisites for the public service—a chaperone or a conscience.

Congressional lobbying is paid for by the common people who can't see any difference in the price of beet and granulated sugar. The ultimate consumer does not object to paying the hotel and railroad expenses of a first-rate lobbyist to prevent the price of hard coal from jumping ten cents a ton every month in the year. But when a lobby sits around and sees premium bacon put in the market, it assumes a criminal aspect at once.

cause for the decrease in the circulation in the juvenile department, and it will be necessary to replace a large number of worn out books during the next two months. If we are to continue sending books to the schools for circulation, I feel that it is important that this work be continued as it is only through the books sent to the schools, and the interest of the teachers, that many of the children, whose homes are distant from the library are able to obtain books.

Among the few important book additions of the past year are two good reference sets for the children's room, Alton's Encyclopedia and the Students' Reference Work, the new United States Catalog, which is proving invaluable for reference work as well as for book buying, and a new abridged edition of Poole's Index, which will simplify the reference work.

During the year 776 books were withdrawn. These include books worn out, destroyed because of contamination, missing, lost in circulation, etc. His leaves a total gain of 133 volumes. In May the shelving was counted, class by class, and the number of books given in this year's report is based on this count. This is less than the number given in previous reports, but does not indicate that these books have been lost, but that only books represented on the shelf list have been counted, and does not include several hundred unaccessioned government and state documents, patent office reports, etc.

Children's Work.
In the Children's Department, 20 Saturday morning story hours were held, and two afternoon travel talks given for older children, the first being a talk on the Philippine Islands by John L. Snyder, the second on the Panama Canal by Mrs. A. F. Hall. 1170 books were sent to eight school buildings, and the average circulation of these per volume was 6. Besides these, 590 volumes were loaned on special teacher's card for school use. A Christmas exhibit of children's books, suitable for gifts, was held in the Children's Room early in December and attracted much attention. A large number of books were borrowed from the Wisconsin Library School for this occasion.

Binding.
During the year 612 books have been bound and 66 volumes of periodicals and 14 Patent Office Reports bound, at a total cost of $277.95. Since February 1st Miss Isabel Smith has been employed to take charge of the mending, and having this work given to her has made it possible to keep the new books in better shape much longer before re-binding them, and is resulting in a gradual improvement in the appearance of the books on the shelves.

Building.
The only improvement in the building aside from the necessary repairs, is the addition of shelving for the county newspaper files. This is now complete and this valuable local history material is being carefully gone over, and the proper records for it made.

As for several years past, students from the Wisconsin Library School have been assisting in the library during the months of February and March, two students working during each month. Beside the much needed assistance with the desk and the students re-classified and re-catalogued the books of the Fine Arts and Individual Biography, making the material contained in these more easily accessible.

Clubs.
During the year the Janesville Art League, Woman's History Club, Twentieth Century Club, Athlete Club, and the McDowell Club met regularly in the library and other clubs have held occasional meetings there.

Gifts.
The library has received gifts of books and pamphlets from the following: C. E. Auld, Prof. H. E. Buell, L. C. Christensen, Miss A. C. Gooding, George Bower, First Church of Christ, Rev. G. A. Jackson, J. H. Jensen, Rev. G. L. Raymond, Miss Julia S. Sawyer, S. S. Smith, Staun Thompson, Hon. J. M. Whitehead, Rev. L. W. Zimmerman.

One of the most interesting gifts received was a framed roster of Company B, 13th Wisconsin volunteer infantry, now hanging in the Reading Room. Company B was organized in Janesville, September 16, 1861, and the roster is dated October 12, 1863. This interesting relic of Civil War days was presented by Mr. Charles A. Carter of Wauwatosa, formerly of this city.

The Philippine weapons loaned by Captain Thomas L. Richardson of the United States Army, have proved an interesting and instructive addition to the library exhibits.

I hope during the coming year that the library may not only do better but broader work for the community and especially that more may be done for work the library can do which is valuable as this. We hope to be able to give to the pupils in the upper grades some systematic instruction in the use of the library. The rearranging of the books on the shelves in absolute class order, the purchase of the abridged Poole's Index, and the more complete cataloguing should make the giving of such instruction much easier.

Next to and efficient in our work for the schools, the greatest service this library could render to the community would be the establishment of deposit stations in some of the outlying parts of the city, thus making some of the library privileges available to people who cannot visit the library often enough to make it possible for them to borrow books.

I wish to thank the local newspapers for their continued interest in giving space to library notices, etc., to express my appreciation of the faithful and efficient services of the members of the library staff, and my gratitude to the members of the Board of Directors for their support and helpfulness.

Respectfully submitted,
GEORGE COBB,
Librarian.

GOOD EATS GOSPEL WILL BE PREACHED

MISS PEET, A TRUE EVANGELIST IN THE CAUSE OF BETTER FOOD.

ADMISSION IS FREE

Promises to Divulge Many Culinary Secrets at Next Week's Gazette's Cooking School.

Miss Peet will be on hand early Monday morning at the Assembly Hall to see that everything is in readiness for the big Gazette's Cooking School, the opening of which occurs Monday afternoon at 2:30. Miss Peet is not merely a good cook. She will tell Janesville housewives the ways and hows of better cooking. She will go beneath the surface and show what properly prepared food means to the family. She has some very unusual views upon the subject of the effect of food upon the character. One of her ideas is that properly prepared food, that is, a variety of attractive and digestible foods, does much towards the wedding of home ties. For example, one of the fondest memories of childhood is that of the many foods which used to charm the youthful palate. A man invariably forms impressions in his mind whenever he dines away from home. He thinks, "Well, mother's pie was better than this; those doughnuts don't taste like they used to when I was a boy at home." "My wife makes better cake than that." Miss Peet even goes so far as to say that good food or poor food often times tends to build or wreck a person's disposition, in that one's health is almost entirely built around that food, and much persecuted organ the stomach. If it is the occasional dyspeptic who is very cheerful, happy, and an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure in the case of dyspepsia. "Keep people from being so dissatisfied with their food, and so much attention to diet, and a purer diet for those afflicted with stomach ailments," says Miss Peet.

Miss Peet says that the savory steam arising from the kitchen stove can either form the words "peace" or "discord." A man who is essentially well fed, Miss Peet holds to the old fashioned belief that the road to a man's heart lies through his stomach. She does not necessarily mean that a woman must become a kitchen slave. Domestic Science is changing all this. It makes for less work but increased variety and wholesomeness of food.

She says that a woman should train for household efficiency just the same as a man must train for business or athletic efficiency. So many girls marry with but a hazy idea of household and cooking, that by their ignorance of these details they are not even competent to superintend the work of their servants, should they be so fortunate as to have servants. If they are called upon to prepare a meal, they do so in a hazy fashion, and woe to the family digest. Of course in the case of the young woman who is employed during the day, conditions are somewhat different. She has very much like the homemaker, but she has no kitchen, and when she comes home in the evening more or less exhausted from the day's business exertions. She can, however, keep her kitchen activities in at least a little bit of her power of analysis regarding the different food with which she is served. She can observe the fundamentals of the culinary art. This is a home with a domestic sense. With some cooking "comes natural," while others do not seem to be able to, or rather inclined to learn the fundamentals of food preparation. "The housewife," writes Miss Peet, "who is not a certain contempt for cooking. They were rather proud of their helplessness in the kitchen. They believed that they could not fry a batter cake or a wafer or a griddle. Domestic Science has now wrought wonders. Women are now ashamed of their ignorance and are striving to learn that greatest of all sciences, Domestic Science, and they are developing more of an interest in things domestic than they did in their own youth."

Such views characterize Miss Peet's remarks upon the lecture platform. She is a woman of good common sense, and essentially a housekeeper.

At the date of her first Janesville lecture-demonstration in next week Monday, at 2:30 in the Assembly Hall, where she will prepare a tasty menu for the guests of The Gazette.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical profession. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, by destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. Largest of All Barometers.
The big barometer at Faenza, Italy, set up some years ago as a memorial to Torricelli, is thought to be the largest of all such instruments. The oil column in this barometer stands normally at about thirty-seven feet, and its fluctuations are read in feet instead of inches, as in the case of ordinary thermometers.

What to do with all the race horses that will be in Monroe for the Green county fair Sept. 10-13 is puzzling the directors of the society. The only solution seems to be to build a new horse barn and the officers will soon secure an estimate on a building 100 feet long by 24 wide. Sixty-four horses are entered in the four big $1,000 stake races and there will be five or more purse races to fill this month, thus bringing the total number of speeders up to at least 100.

A new fence has been built along the home stretch on the race track. The posts supporting the old one were getting weakened and it was feared that an accident might occur when the crowd is watching a race.

A cement floor has been built in the dining hall kitchen and city water piped to the building. The dining hall privilege has been sold to a Madison cafe man who will conduct it with experienced help.

Secretary M. E. Baltzer has made contracts with several concessions which will appear at the fair and it is expected Midway will be larger than ever this year.

EVER MASSACHUSETTS.

Ever since the adoption of the primary system in Wisconsin politics the Gazette has maintained that it was an entirely wrong system. The various primary elections held have demonstrated this beyond the question of a doubt, but still it remains on the statute books. It is one of the curses of reforms by an ultra reform element of the republican party. In this connection it will be interesting to note the protests that are now going up both in Iowa and Massachusetts, where similar laws are in operation. The Fort Dodge (Iowa) Messenger discusses the situation as follows: "and also quotes the editorial from the Boston Herald which tells the tale of the dissatisfaction in the east."

The Messenger says:

"The Boston Herald protest against the primary system, which we republish elsewhere, will awaken a response in many localities. The primary system of making nominations has spread over the country under the momentum of a universal impulse to reform our government in some way."

The old system of government did not make a satisfactory record. The primary system was adopted, the form, and it was forthwith adopted. Anybody who ventured to express a doubt about its superiority was marked as a reactionary and enemy of popular government. It has been tried long enough to show that it not only fails short of making good government certain but in many important respects falls short of the convention system."

"No one would advocate going back to the old system of unregulated caucuses. The choice of delegates to a state or county convention is as truly an election as any later step in the machinery of naming officials and should have similar legal safeguards. The choice of state officials by a general primary is a mistake. Perhaps it is not quite so foolish as the initiative and referendum, but it is going quite far enough for the present."

In the Boston Herald is found the following:

"Our system of direct nominations has been in force long enough to disclose certain elemental weaknesses. In the making of a governor, for example, the present system is producing these results:

"Conclusions are more cut and dried than ever before. Three candidates are this year named long in advance. Conventions were never so inelastic and unyielding as this."

"Nominations are limited strictly to men who seek the office. The chance of a strategic choice has been lost. The possibility of 'drafting' somebody no longer exists. The poor man has been eliminated. He does not run. The very opening of a contest means a vast expenditure of money."

"Our political period has been lengthened greatly. We used to discuss the governorship in the fall; we now have to do it in midsummer, in preparation for the September primaries. In consequence we have one continuous session of politics, to the wearisomeness of the community."

"The people of Massachusetts ought to recognize that they have carried a mistake that they have carried a good thing too far and that the highest generalship is often exhibited in 'beating a masterly retreat.' From the extreme of the popular primary idea we ought, as a commonwealth, to sound such a note."

"We should continue to elect our delegates to the state convention on the present primary system."

"That eliminates the evil of the caucuses. So far so good; But these chosen men, giving careful attention to the problem before them, should pick out the state ticket. They could then adjust it in all respects to the occasion. They consider geography, racial groupings, peculiar avocations, and a thousand things which it is useless to expect the entire electorate to weigh carefully."

"This is a page of the specialist. Why should we not profit by some specialization in the agencies of government? Directors of a bank pass on the paper offered to it for investment, instead of referring the question to the entire body of stockholders. The school curriculum is made up by educational experts instead of by the parents whose children go to the schools."

"The application is simple in all this. The delegate to a convention can give hours to the arguments in behalf of candidates; he can apply himself to the problem, just as he would do in picking out a foreman for his factory if he owned one. The entire electorate cannot specialize. Few have the time for it. Still fewer have the inclination."

"The rule of the people! What becomes of that? It appears just as much in one case as in the other. The issue is merely one in mechanism. Who would not denounce the nomination of Abraham Lincoln in 1860 as subversive of the rule of the people? And yet that was made by a convention in which the delegates were free to seek the strategic possibilities of the situation. They did this by passing over the candidate whom a popular primary would have nominated."

TONS OF PREVENTION.

With reports from the grain-growing sections of the country that the crops this year will far exceed those of former years, that millions of dollars will be needed to handle it expeditiously and that the democratic secretary of the treasury has placed this money on deposit in various government banks for such purposes, the thought reverts back to Wall Street as to how they will take the new methods of parceling out the funds.

The Wall Street Journal is somewhat caustic in its expression and says:

"I insist! This appears to be the attitude of the nimble secretary of the treasury. In the same day's papers that give repeated evidence by bankers that there is no urgent need of the $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 of 'crop moving' funds, suddenly flashed upon the banks, or certain banks, at the close of last week, comes the news that another $100,000,000 will follow."

Of course, the secretary's desk is piled high with letters of appreciation and telegrams of application. When an indignant relative opens his purse and suddenly passes out bank-rolls it is a rare child that will refuse. Since the treasury is in the spending mood, there is little inducement for banks in a 6 per cent money market, or higher, to protest.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. But a few thoughtful bankers, whether correctly or no, are wondering whether tons of prevention may find the medicine closet bare when a real crisis comes."

"Eastern bankers will also watch with a somewhat critical, though not jealous, eye the actual parceling out of the treasury's millions. Not that anyone believes that the distribution will be made with the slightest idea of winning ballots. That would be intolerable. Still it is interesting to note the rather frank declaration that the sections that need the money are those that have pro administration votes. Perhaps the secretary has heard the counsel of the practical parent: 'Marry for love, but love where there is money.'"

"It has been said that Eastern bankers would watch the experiment without jealousy. There is no need for that. For just as surely as the treasury puts out funds in the South and West in excess of actual needs the excess will come to New York. Whether New York can keep it from going on to Europe, is another matter. And it is a matter in which the just law of New York is interested."

Janesville will be the center of interest in the borsemen of the middle west next week when the opening races of the Wisconsin Grand Circuit meet starts.

A Total Wreck.

"What on earth is the matter with you?" asked the friend as Podsnap got off the train, gave a hurried look to right and left and then tried to get through the crowd unobserved. You look like the rag end of a mis-spent life."

Podsnap was a picture of despair. His clothing hadn't been pressed for two weeks, he had a week's growth of beard on his chin, his collar was filled, his necktie was turned under his left ear and a tattered straw hat sat rakishly on an unkempt head of hair. There were dark circles under his eyes and there was a wild look about him which reminded his friend of the ancient cave man.

"There is nothing the matter with me," growled Podsnap. "Nothing at all excepting that I have been away talking my vacation. I left town two weeks ago to find a cool spot where I could regain my shattered health and the result is what you see. I have visited seven summer places and I have eaten cooking that would put a rhinoceros under the table. I have slept in two-by-four bedrooms that were like Turkish baths and have had to sleep with my feet out of the window when I wanted to straighten out and get the kinks out of my legs. I have been held up and robbed three times a day and have been dragged out of the water twice. I have put up with every inconvenience that could be devised by the mind of man and I have the ailment called dyspepsia which I never had before in my life. I have fought mosquitoes as big as prairie chickens and sand fleas and horse flies until I couldn't rest."

"What are you going to do now?" "Foolish question, No. 4-11-44. I am going to stay at home, of course. Nothing less than the sudden death of a rich uncle will get me away from my own front porch this summer. I am going to go home and bury these clothes and try to forget two weeks of my going to stick around home until I win my health back and then I am going to work. I believe that Russell Sage was right. One vacation every forty years is enough."

LEADS AUTOISTS ON LONG JOURNEY

Carl G. Fisher.

Vice President Carl G. Fisher of the Lincoln Highway association and owner of the Indianapolis speedway, recently lead a party of Indiana autoists over the proposed Lincoln highway, which is to connect both ends of the nation with a well built roadway over which automobile touring parties will be able to travel from ocean to ocean. It was the first time a party of autoists had gone over the long route.

Several millions of dollars have already been subscribed toward making the highway a reality, and a bill is now before the U. S. congress calling for a large contribution for its construction.

"THE MARTYRDOM OF EMILY DAVIDSON."

The Moving Picture World says of this film:

"What is undoubtedly the most remarkable topical film ever brought to this country reached New York a few days ago from the Gaumont Company of London. This film covered the recent fatal race at Epsom Downs, in which Emily Davidson, a militant suffragette, threw King George's horse and sustained fatal injuries. On the occasion of this year's Derby the Gaumont Company had three cameramen stationed on the course, two being located at the famous 'Tatler' corner, in the most interesting spot in the whole Derby course, and here it was that Miss Davidson chose to sacrifice her life in order to call attention to the cause she advocated. As the horses rounded the 'Tatler' corner, two Gaumont men were busy grinding out film. In their eagerness the first batch of horses was under way; suddenly a woman in dark clothes springs from the rail and as the last three horses appear, she quickly grabs the bridle of the King's entry, throwing her horse a complete somersault, and falling through the air, falling herself under the hoofs of the horses that follow. Every incident of the unfortunate affair is accurately recorded in the most remarkable series of motion pictures ever taken of a current event. Every London illustrated paper used clips from the Gaumont film in distributing the episode."

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

WASHINGTON.

It is a magic name, that of the nation's founder, who is becoming, in turn, the father of the republican era in other lands.

It is belittling that this spotless name should grace the capital city of the greatest of republics, for it is a continual suggestion of the character that republic should take.

It is said by competent authorities that when present plans have been carried out Washington will be the most beautiful city in the world.

Even now it is beautiful, a city of parks and broad streets, of pleasant homes and public buildings worthy of a great nation.

ashes, but may have risen from its former swampy condition.

Yet its growth to a century to an ideal capital is no more of a miracle than that of the nation about it, which has sprung up in the same time from out of a wilderness.

Some people call Washington a southern city, but this is a misnomer. It is both southern and northern, with some of the best features of each section.

One to appreciate Washington must ride around it and look down on it from the heights along the Tenallytown road. He must behold it from many angles, both from near and far, must approach it from the river and see it from the Virginia hills. It is well worth study even in its present uncompleted state. What, then, will it be when the plans of its builders have been translated into parks and malls, memorials, statues and classic buildings?

The parking is being continued along the banks of the Potomac. There the Lincoln memorial will stand. The capitol will be, in part, surrounded by parks, one extending to the new Union station and postoffice and another down past the agricultural buildings to the Washington monument.

In vision one can see the heights about the city crowned with beautiful homes. Already these are beginning to appear.

As the republic advances in wealth, culture and art it is not difficult to imagine Washington becoming a second Athens or Rome, a center of poetry and learning, an intellectual as well as a political and social capital.

An American can take a greater pride in his country after looking upon her capital city.

IS EIGHTY YEARS OLD

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—Gen. Powell Clayton, former ambassador to Mexico and for nearly half a century a prominent figure in American politics, celebrated his eightieth birthday anniversary today. Gen. Clayton's career has been one of unusual activity. After serving as an officer of the Union army in the Civil War, he settled on a plantation in Arkansas, where he became a leader of the Republican party and was elected governor and United States senator. For more than forty years he represented Arkansas on the Republican national committee and during that period he was a delegate to every national convention of his party. Last winter, having taken up his permanent residence in this city, Gen. Clayton resigned his place on the national committee. At present he is busily engaged in writing his memoirs, which he promises to contain many things to clear up the facts in the great political contests of bygone days.

CITY MAY PROCEED WITH BRIDGE WORK

CONTRACTOR CAN CONTINUE PREPARATIONS.

WILL FORWARD PLANS

United States District Engineer at Rock Island Assures Mayor and City Engineer of Recommendation.

That the Gould Construction Company may proceed with the construction of the new concrete bridge over the Rock river at Milwaukee street was the statement of Major Charles Kellar, United States District Engineer at Rock Island, Ill., made to Mayor James A. Fathens and City Engineer C. V. Kerch in a conference held at his office yesterday. He advised the contractor, however, to make any large outlay until the War Department had been heard from. Major Kellar promised to forward plans of the bridge to the Department within three or four days and accompany them with his recommendation that they be approved as soon as possible in order that no delay in the construction may occur. After a casual inspection of the plans the declared his belief that they would be found satisfactory, as the fifty-two foot width of the spans was more than ample, though there was less certainty about their height. They are 132 feet above extreme low water level. The usual government requirement is 12 feet above normal stage of water or "pool level" as it is termed. He thought the difference too slight to cause any difficulty, though a modification might not be advised. The plans in their entirety were very close to what is expected, practically complying with all requirements.

Build at Peril. All who build over the river do so at their peril, said Major Kellar, for the reason that if the government chooses to open the stream to navigation it will make no compensation for the removal of obstructions. He advised that no attempts be made to rebuild on the sites of the burned structures until Congress takes action on the Rock river improvement plans which will be submitted to Congress in its next regular session beginning in September. The proposed channel is on the east side of the river, cutting directly through the burned-over area.

The Major is enthusiastic over the prospects for the improvement of the Rock river and hopeful of favorable action by Congress. It is of greater importance to the cities on its banks, and especially to Janesville, as the northern terminal, than few realize at present time.

The interview between the representatives of the city and the government engineer lasted about two hours and Mayor Fathens and City Engineer Kerch are confident that Major Kellar will do his best to prevent any delay in the erection of the new bridge. Following the conference they had time to visit the great United States arsenal at Rock Island. They returned to the city tonight.

Bridge Closed Today. Milwaukee Street bridge was closed to street car and vehicle traffic at one o'clock this afternoon at the request of Mr. J. A. Shore, foreman of the Gould Construction Company, the contractors, who will at once proceed with the work preliminary to construction. A foot-bridge will be built over piling to be placed to the north of the existing bridge and, with the possible exception of a few days, will be kept open during the entire period of construction. Work will be begun at the west bank where a large quantity of material has been piled. A large derrick will be placed here. In about thirty days another derrick will be placed at the east approach and construction be carried on from both sides. Fifteen men are now at work but in a week or ten days forty will be employed. As much local labor will be hired as can be obtained. Four carloads of material are now on the sidings and three more carrying most of the machinery, arrived today. The largest derrick will not arrive for a few days.

The contractors are awaiting the removal of the poles and wires on the bridge which must be done before they can commence operations. A tool shed and office is being constructed.

MANY ACTIONS TRIED BEFORE JUDGE GRIMM

Unusual Number Taken Up in County Court Today—Several Divorces Are Granted.

Divorces were granted Josephine Waggoner from Hugh O. Waggoner, Besie Coon from Lawrence E. Coon, Flora of the town of Clara and Catherine Burger from Russell H. Burger. The defendants in these cases were not present. The custody of the minor Art child was awarded to a third party, and the custody of the child Clara was given to the plaintiff. Doherty was committed to jail for contempt of court through failure to pay alimony to his divorced wife, Nellie A. Doherty. The defendant was not present. He must agree to pay the costs of the action as well as the alimony before securing his release. The action of Stanley D. Tallman, versus George K. Tallman for partition of real estate was held open by order of the court, as was also that of N. Nuzum versus the Janesville Traction Company to set aside the motion for a new trial. ## STATE SPEED LIMIT HAS FORCE IN CITY

Violators Can Be Prosecuted Through District Attorney—Mayor Denies Contrary Report.

Although Attorney General Owen ruled some time ago that the city ordinance governing the speed of automobiles and motorcycles is illegal, because it established a lower limit than that prescribed by the state law, automobile drivers may not speed to their hearts' desire without being subjected to penalty as reported in a recent issue of the state law in force and violators can be prosecuted by the district attorney. There is no necessity for the city to enact an ordinance establishing a speed limit of fifteen miles an hour unless it is referred to the state law.

This is the substance of statements made this morning by Mayor Fathens and Chief of Police Ransom, when referred to the erroneous statement. Ever since Attorney General Owen submitted his opinion all prosecutions against speeders have been brought under the state law and in no case was the legality of the fastest or conviction brought in question.

HOT WEATHER CHARTS FOR POLAR REGIONS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New Orleans, La., Aug. 7.—During the torrid weather of the last several weeks the naval hydrographers connected with the New Orleans station have been rushing work on the latest charts of the polar regions. The completed charts were forwarded to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington today. All of the notes taken by Peary and Amundsen have been embodied in this work.

Placing of great ice fields, plotting of glaciers and throwing into relief the great snow covered plateaus while half a dozen electric fans buzzed profitlessly in the hot office, called forth witticisms from every caller.

New Orleans-made icefields and glacial walls were declared by the inspector, who looked over the charts to be equal to any that he had ever seen.

Lieut. John C. Soley, head of the United States hydrographic office here, said that he felt highly complimented when this work was assigned to the New Orleans office and that he felt that his staff had acquitted themselves with great credit on what he considers one of the most difficult tasks of charting ever handled by the department.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

"THE 'nigger' dance seems to find its main origin in the crude and heathen sexual customs of middle Africa, afterwards passing through the centres of prostitution in large cities where the contributions of city savages from Paris to San Francisco have been added to it."—George Kibbe Turner.

Did you ever have the eyes of your mind opened so suddenly on any subject that you felt almost blinded by the light of understanding? That is what happened to me day before yesterday. Like everyone else in this country I had heard more or less about the "grizzly bear" and all its descendants down to the latest, the "grapevine." But up to the day before yesterday I had taken the description of these dances with that grain of salt with which most of us flavor any—us—credible report. I felt that either the indecency of these dances had been greatly exaggerated, or that they were only danced by low people who knew no better. It seemed incredible to me that the kind of people you and I meet would really dance the kind of dances pictured in the newspapers.

Day before yesterday I saw with my own eyes young people who came from good (?) families, and who were raised by careful mothers, (save the mark!) publicly embracing each other in a manner which would not have been thought of a year ago for a young girl and her affianced husband. They called this performance the "grapevine."

Seeing is believing, they say. In this case I almost disbelieved that axiom. I could not believe my eyes. I talked with one of the matrons of the dance. She said, "You'll get used to it. They do this sort of thing now-a-days in some of the smartest houses."

I gave up the argument, but this is the way I would have continued it if she had been worth arguing with:

My dear madam, no normal girl is nice. If by nice you mean without any dormant sex feeling, I suppose that is what you must mean, because that is the only kind of girl who would not, sooner or later, be affected by the attitudes assumed in these dances.

The quotation at the head of this column is from a man who has studied this subject deeply. He adds later apropos of the same kind of dancing, "Never before has dancing been such a provocative to immorality."

We are so accustomed to warnings from the sensational press that we grow careless about them, but this is a time when the cry of "wolf" really means danger.

Now the best and surest way to get rid of the "grizzly bear" and all its disgusting descendants is to make them unpopular. My hand to every woman, young or old, who does his or her part toward that.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

"Blue July, bright July, Month of Eornis and gorgeous blue; Violet lightnings on the sky, Heavy falls of drenching dew, Welcome thee with all this pride, And love thee like an Easter bride."

Jane Addams says housekeeping and cooking is a "belated industry." If anyone has ever had an opportunity to know it has been Jane Addams, of Hull House on Halsted street, one of the most congested streets of the great city of Chicago. Many an economic problem was worked out by us in Hull House while at the University of Chicago. It is impossible to get the viewpoint or the proper angle from which to judge home conditions of the masses unless you go where these things can be observed day after day.

Riding on a street car out of my home in the country recently, through just such conditions in our city, a young lady sitting beside me said, "How I hate this street, I am glad when we get out of it, there is nothing to see."

Nothing to see? When I come in the morning there is much, not to see, but to observe, and I am not through yet observing conditions among this class of people who are poor and living in a "from hand to mouth" style because they know no better.

What She Observed. There is only one way they can ever know the better way and that is with a Jane Addams who will come into their midst, being one of them every day and showing them how to cook, clean up the homes, themselves, and their children and how to keep clean.

This I observed in the mornings: Women sitting on porches, doorways, hanging over fences or in front of shops gossiping, when they should have been putting the house in order and preparing the food for the day. These women who should work, and work hard, are idlers, idlers of the worst sort, spending their time gossiping instead of whooping work breeds quarrelling and discontent. As I gazed into their homes untidiness and filth were much in evidence. If women waste the best part of the day in visiting over the yard fence, when and where the meals be prepared for the family?

Well, I'll tell you how I saw it when I went home at 5 o'clock. At just the hour when the average woman is in her kitchen and dining room getting the evening meal, these women are going up and down the street, looking for cakes, bread and other foodstuffs which are brought home in paper bags and are quickly prepared for supper. It is easy to see how money earned by the "sweat of the brow" of husbands and fathers from these homes is soon spent and the worst of it is also little food value in these meals that in an hour's time they must be hungry and to satisfy this craving, resort to drink.

Question of Degree. This sounds very far away from us, who have comfortable homes and good incomes, but it is not. The squalor is only a little less, what is all. But instead of gossiping over the back fence in the morning, it is sleeping or being away from home, having latest in everything else but that which our business partnership demands of us. Then when it is time for the meal, we stop at the delicatessen shop and buy expensive sliced meats, salads, rolls, pickles and nuts, quickly applying our purses quickly and calling it food.

The other woman of whom we have spoken has never heard of standards of living; there is some excuse for that, but for ourselves, when we resort to such methods in our homes by living much of the time from paper bags, I am ready to condemn it and say it is a most pernicious habit and fosters a more or less unsavory habit of eating and robs the family of its right to a real dinner of food. More than that, the food and combinations usually selected are indigestible and very costly.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Would you please tell me how to take fleecy out of varnish. I have a flannel cloth on the table to keep the table cloth from sticking to it.

I have put hot dishes on the table and the fleecy has stuck to it so I can't get it off. Would you please tell me how and what to do to get this off. I have varnished it, but that hasn't done any good.

It was a mistake to varnish it. A little turpentine or warm water would have taken it off at first. I am afraid the table top will have to be refinished now.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Was keeping steady company with a young man quite a while. He disappointed me. He has always told me he loved me and I really can't live without him.

on the June bug stains, and sponging with soap and warm water may do it. I am not experienced in this. For the black oil spots—rub with lard first, then sponge with warm soap-suds, working always toward the center of the spot so no water stain will remain.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl fourteen years of age.

(1) Do you think I am too young to go to town by myself if it is seven miles from where I live, and cars are plentiful?

(2) What will make my hair curly?

(3) About how much would you pay to get a nice ring?

ANNXIOUS.

(1) Not if you are careful and do not permit strange people to influence you. Of course your parents should know all about it.

(2) Take a tablespoonful of crushed quince seed (get at drug store), add it to half a pint of alcohol and rub it into the hair. You can then put the hair in curlers and it will stay in curl for quite a while.

(3) It depends upon the value of the stones in it, or the workmanship and quality of gold used. You ought to get a fairly good ring, without a setting, for about $5.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

THE best natural disinfectant is sunshine, best germ, disinfectant is formaldehyde, best physical disinfectant is soap, the best moral disinfectant is publicity.

—Medical Journal.

NICE THINGS TO KNOW.

A cut lemon or a Bermuda onion may be kept fresh a long time by turning the cut side down on a plate and covering with waxed paper.

In a small kitchen where every inch of floor space is valuable have a camp chair, and when not in use hang on a hook.

Dishes to cool on the ice are often most unstable, use a few old can rubbers on the ice to keep the dishes from slipping.

When filling salt and pepper shakers use an orange spoon. It will save spilling the salt or pepper.

When traveling with young children and the stockings is torn or needs mending use a piece of court plaster, it will serve splendid for a time. Apply the plaster dampened to the wrong side of the hose, bringing the edges together.

When adding water to a vase of flowers, many spots on polished furniture would be avoided by using a small funnel.

Tennis shoes are fine for wearing about the house when scrubbing or cleaning floors.

A short piece of uncooked macaroni put into a berry pie in the opening made for the escape of steam will serve for a chimney and the juices will not waste, but boil up in this small funnel.

When glass stoppers are obstinate about being removed a drop of oil and a quick tap will loosen them.

Cut the round sandwiches with a baking powder can. Several may be cut at a time.

Bath mats may be made from old bed spreads when they are of heavy quality. The lighter weight makes good wash cloths.

A small towel and a holder with a cord attached, both fastened to the apron belt are great helps to a busy house mother, when cooking.

Transplant a few asters into the vegetable garden and when the vegetables are gone in the fall there will be something worth while to look at.

Easy To Tell What He Thought.

Little Jerome, aged five, heard his mother read from the beauty column of the paper that eating raw carrots would make one beautiful. A short time ago he was called into the room to view his baby sister for the first time. His mother asked him what he thought of her. Taking a good look at her, he answered in a disgusted tone, "Let's give her a carrot."—Chicago Tribune.

Somehow every inch of ground must be covered. "Without haste, without rest" does not mean that we are never to have leisure or repose, but that the great ideal of our life should be followed patiently and constantly.

Almost any one can make a start, but a quick start not followed by determined plodding is not the way to reach the great things, but if we are not willing to couple them with toil and waiting what will they bring for us? The prize won easily, readily, is more often than not valueless.

Few see or realize the solid masonry that lies beneath the massive buildings that raise their splendid towers to the sky. Yet without them—To advance, first by each may be slow, but it is sure. The things worth retaining in this world are not to be snatched in one short day. To lay a firm foundation, not to build in the sand, is to be firm of purpose, willing to labor and through sunny days or stormy, keep ever before one the bright, bright star of hope.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Things Worth Knowing.

In case of limited closet room, tack a strip of denim about six inches wide just below the hooks. Tack down only the top edge. Pin your dress skirts carefully to it. It saves both space and pressing bills.

Ammonia should never be washed with soda, soap and water being all that is required, with a little whiting for polishing.

THE TABLE.

Quince Custards—Wash, core and slice two quinces and two apples, cover with two cups of cold water and simmer very gently until the fruit is very tender, then strain. Return the liquid to the saucepan, add from one-half to three-quarters of a cupful of sugar according to the acidity of the fruit. Beat well together eight eggs first putting aside the whites of two. Pour the fruit mixture gradually over the eggs, return to the fire and stir until of a rich custard consistency. In the bottom of each custard cup, place a piece of cake dipped in fruit juice. When the custard is cool, fill the cups, and heap on each some meringue made by whipping together the reserved whites of the eggs and three table-spoons of sugar, and a few drops of lemon juice.

Corn Oysters.—Two cupfuls of green corn pulp, two eggs, pepper and red pepper, one tablespoonful of butter, melted, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, and flour. Cut the corn through the kernel with a sharp knife and remove the pulp, add remaining ingredients with enough flour to shape into small cakes. Sauté in butter or pork fat and fry in deep fat.

Broiled Steak With Pepper.—Use a slice cut from the rump, round or sirloin, cut one and a half inches to two and a half inches thick. Wipe the meat, then pound it with a steak shredder, as meat prepared in this manner cooks quicker and more thoroughly than by any other method the juices permeating the crevices. Place on a hot greased broiler and broil over a clear fire from eight to ten minutes, turning every few seconds. Serve on a hot platter, spread with butter, season with salt and pepper and garnish round the dish with stuffed peppers.

Pineapple Cream and Bananas.—Peel bananas and lay them in a shallow baking dish; sprinkle over them one-half cupful each of sugar and water. Bake in a moderate oven until they are a golden brown and a rich banana syrup around them. Remove the fruit to a dish and pour over them a dressing made by mixing one cupful of pineapple juice, one-half cupful of sugar and four table-spoons of thick sweet cream.

Virginia Chow Chow.—Three heads of cabbage, one-half peck of ripe tomatoes, one and one-half dozen onions, one tablespoon black pepper seed, one and one-half dozen red and green peppers (seeds removed), two pounds brown sugar, one teaspoon of grated horseradish, one cance turmeric, one ounce of celery seed and one tablespoon of ground mustard. Chop all finely, add one pint of rice salt and let stand over night; then put in a wire basket to drain, after which put in a kettle with spice; cover with vinegar and boil a few minutes.

Every Day Talks for Every Day People

By FRANCIS JOYCE KENNEDY

A mistake of young persons, and of some of our older ones, too, is that we try to move on too fast. Until we learn the wonderful power of patience, nothing can be mastered.

Not only are we in a hurry to see the results of our labors, but we seem possessed of the idea that there is real merit in doing things quickly. We must all learn the immense distance between conception and execution. Our ideas are plain enough to us, but we can achieve them only by delay; we are continually trying to hasten, we seem that old, true adage—"make haste slowly."

Old times our haste could be excused to the impatient of a child who plucks up a flower to see if it is growing. The impatient never feel sure of their work, and are generally in a great hurry to see results. Their purpose they could tell more steadily toward an outcome. They cannot see ahead, and lacking faith in themselves, they are impatient to arrive and are always looking for shortcuts.

Somehow every inch of ground must be covered. "Without haste, without rest" does not mean that we are never to have leisure or repose, but that the great ideal of our life should be followed patiently and constantly.

Almost any one can make a start, but a quick start not followed by determined plodding is not the way to reach the great things, but if we are not willing to couple them with toil and waiting what will they bring for us? The prize won easily, readily, is more often than not valueless.

CHAUTAUQUA CLOSES
A SUCCESSFUL WEEK

JANESVILLE PUBLIC IS WELL PLEASED WITH SERIES OF ENTERTAINMENTS.

HEAR SUFFRAGE TALK

Miss McEnerney Speaks in Interest
Of Woman Suffrage at Meeting
Last Night—Glee Club
Scores Hit.

Entire commendation of the programs furnished by the National Lincoln Chautauqua system for the week in this city, is expressed by the Janesville public who enjoyed them. Last evening and today the tents were taken down and shipped to the next city on the list.

Not only has the talent which appeared here been most satisfactory, but the management has in every way fulfilled its contract and has manifested a desire to please in every particular. Genuine pleasure is expressed at the announcement that Janesville will again be on the list of Lincoln Chautauqua cities and Chautauqua week next year will be looked forward to with not a little anticipation.

Miss Mary McEnerney of Chicago, a suffrage worker of note, was the speaker last evening appearing under the auspices of the Rock County Suffrage association. She rested her plea for woman's rights on the contention that this was woman's world as well as a man's. She urged women to stand together in their effort to secure the ballot.

"Women are inconsistent," charged Miss McEnerney. "The trouble is they don't stop to think, they act on impulse."

As they say that woman's sphere is in the home. Well if that is so, why is it that so many of our good young ladies are working in our American factories? This world is not only a man's world, but it is a woman's world, too. It is a world intended for a man's and woman's world from the very outset."

"We hear a lot of talk regarding influence these days, on what women can do for their husbands in time of election. Well, as an actual fact, this condition has never existed. At least results from elections will prove it. The eight hour day law was not passed in California until the women received the franchise to vote. Influence is not a fact, and is only manifest in rare cases."

"Women are inconsistent," charged demand their rights, and then there is a holler made. They are then called unwomanly for rising in revolt. At one time women spinned their own yarn, and cured their own meats. These advantages have been taken away from them by invention. The women are now under protection. I say call that according to the men. And now the men refuse to class the women with themselves. They use this new machinery which has been invented to take the place of the spinning wheel, themselves while the women are put to the harder work in the factories."

"In St. Louis alone, there are over 5000 women working in dirty machine shops. This is not a place where women should be, and I think we all agree with these women who strike from day to day in these mills and factories, really don't have time to know what they want. They work because they have to; some to support their families, and others to support themselves, which is oftentimes, a hard task." She was given much applause as she closed her address.

The Lyric Glee club, which furnished the concert for the evening, was in a class by itself. The singing was powerful and in sweet harmony all of the time. They repeated by request several selections which were given in the afternoon. The members of the club were accompanied by instrumentalists as well as vocalists and played several delightful numbers. Their closing number was a fast march, and was played with great vigor, and harmony. The men all had rich voices. The controlled and in complete harmony.

Three tableaux were presented by the local suffragists after careful preparation. The first was, entitled, "Mother," the second one, "Daughters of Freedom," and the third, "Suffrage." Arousing Her Sisters was a pretty scene taking the suffrage into the home, and to the factory.

The entire Chautauqua was a huge success, and it is hoped that this organization will be permanent in this city for some years to come.

INCOME ASSESSMENT
MUST BE CORRECTED

Letter Sent Out by Tax Commission
Calls Attention to New Law
Which is Now in Effect.

Wisconsin income tax assessors are receiving letters from the state tax commission, which is a letter of instruction and explanation relative to an important amendment to the income tax passed by the present legislature.

The law, contained in chapter 635, as amended exempts from the income tax all dividends received from state national, mutual savings banks and trust companies subject to taxation by the state, and also incomes of building and loan associations, all religious, scientific, educational, benevolent or other corporations of individuals not organized or conducted for pecuniary profit.

It also provides that the stockholder may deduct dividends received from his stock, that is, he will continue to report the dividends received upon the first page of the income tax blank and deduct them on the second page.

It will be necessary for the assessors, according to the letter, to go over the returns and deduct dividends received from the state and national banks, savings banks and trust companies in this district as the law applies to the assessment of this year upon incomes of 1912.

The provision of the income tax law permitting the offset of personal property tax against the income tax has also been amended so as to deprive the owner of bank and trust companies' stock from using the receipt for the tax paid upon such stock as an offset against his income tax.

IMPORTANT CHANGES IN LIVESTOCK LAWS

Measures Passed at Present Session of Legislature Will Interest
Rock County Farmers.

Important changes were made in Wisconsin livestock laws by the last legislature. The regulations pertaining to tubercular animals were modified so as to increase the maximum appraisal value from $50 to $70. The appraisal value from that compensation further received by the owner of condemned cattle shall depend upon the extent of the disease found in the individual animal by post-mortem examination.

Section of Indemnities.

As in the past, when post-mortems do not reveal lesions owners of cattle shall receive the full appraisal value. For those animals that pass the meat inspection of the appraisal value. But the meat is condemned the owner will get 50 percent of appraisal value.

In this connection it is important that owners of animals in which the disease has progressed so far that the meat is unfit for food purposes should realize that these are dangerous to keep in a herd. The act must be taken to prevent the spread of the disease; cause rapid spread of the disease; and every herd owner for his own protection should have infected animals removed as quickly as possible, even if he did not receive any compensation.

Quarantine Farms.

In the past the law has forbidden transfer of ownership in tubercular animals. For this reason many pure bred animals, valuable for breeding purposes, have gone the slaughterhouse route because their owners found it inconvenient to hold them in quarantine under the regulations of the State Livestock Board.

To prevent some of the losses thus occasioned this board is now authorized to establish quarantine farms where infected animals can be kept. And the law now provides that ownership of such animal may, with the original owner to the owner of the quarantine farm. A committee from the Livestock Sanitary Board is now drafting rules and regulations for the operation of these farms.

To further restrict the spread of hog cholera, a new rule has been passed regarding the importation of swine. It guards against the admission of any hog into the state of Wisconsin, except for immediate slaughter, unless it has been properly immunized. The hog may be either immunized by the anti-serum and the injection of the anti-serum and the vaccination, or it may be immunized by the injection of the anti-serum alone within a seven-day period, or by crossing the state line. Some outbreaks of hog cholera within the state have been due to the importation of animals suffering from the disease. The rapid spread of the disease makes it necessary to protect the industry in general.

The personnel of the Livestock Sanitary Board now consists of Charles H. Everett of Racine, Ira Christ of Hudson, H. B. Kreuzer of Beaver Dam, and two ex-officio members, Dr. O. H. Clason, state veterinarian, and Prof. E. G. Hastings, bacteriologist of the University of Wisconsin's college of agriculture.

SOLD AT WELL-STOCKED DRUG STORES

$ DOLLAR DAY WEDNESDAY AUGUST 13th $

The inaugurating of a Dollar Day is the result of a plan conceived by the Gazette Advertising Department and suggested by them to the merchants that they unite on one day twice each year to offer the public an opportunity to buy the remnants of their summer stocks at prices as low as can be made.

No matter how careful a merchant may choose his stock, at the end of the season he will find a certain amount of LEFT OVERS, that for some reason have not been sold. IN QUALITY, STYLE AND PRICE they are the equal of his BEST SELLERS. The only thing at fault with these goods is that THEY HAVE NOT BEEN SOLD.

But two courses are open. The price may be cut to a point where they will sell or they can be carried over until another season. No merchant wishes to carry over goods. Therefore at the end of each season one price reduction follows another until the stocks are clean.

Dollar Day Marks
The Last Price Reduction

It is the grand finale of all the sales that have preceded it, and if the prices look so low that they seem hardly reliable, remember that they probably represent the last desperate effort of some merchant to sell you merchandise far below the cost to him rather than carry it into another season.
